For more than 15 years in using PowerPoint, I didn't find a tool that impressed me like ClassPoint does.

Is there any tool that is even better than ClassPoint? It's that simple, that's exactly why I find it useful!

With ClassPoint, I don't need to use whiteboards, Kahoot, Padlet, Wheels of Names, etc.; Now I am enjoying my PowerPoint with full confidence.

Hi John

Thanks for getting in touch. I have just started using ClassPoint and exploring some of the features. I personally like the Pick A Name feature in the tool. And the ease to use CP directly via PowerPoint. Students find it easy to use too, since they do not have to logged into different platforms while they are following the classes. It injects fun and interaction during teaching and I believe it does help to increase student engagement. I will continue to explore CP and use it more in my future lessons.

Regards
Irene

Class point is a great interactive tool that serves presentations with the participation of students, interaction, and the presentation of answers and results, as well as many blackboards in it, and random selection frankly sings about everything 🍏🍏

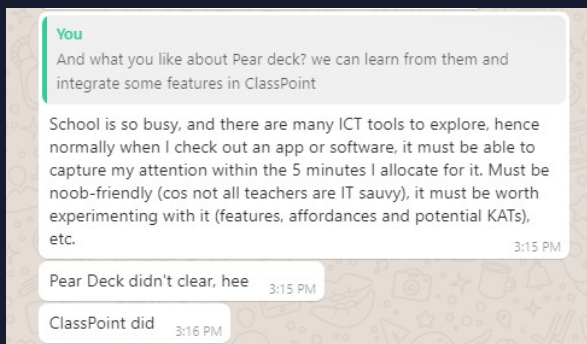

Te lo pregunto por si conoces alguna herramienta que esté incluso mejor que ésta... la verdad que no uso Power point para las presentaciones pero doy un curso a profes compis de mi uni que sí y se la voy a enseñar (es así de simple, justo por eso me parece útil). MUCHAS GRACIAS

You

And what you like about Pear Deck? we can learn from them and integrate some features in ClassPoint

School is so busy, and there are many ICT tools to explore, hence normally when I check out an app or software, it must be able to capture my attention within the 5 minutes I allocate for it. Must be noob-friendly (cos not all teachers are IT sauvy), it must be worth experimenting with it (features, affordances and potential KATs), etc.

Pear Deck didn't clear, hee 3:15 PM

ClassPoint did 3:16 PM
